Providing Free or Deeply Discounted Skiing for Senior Skiers 2019-2020

SeniorsSkiing.com is pleased to provide subscribers with our annual listing of North American ski areas providing older skiers with free or deeply discounted season passes and/or lift tickets.

To our knowledge, SeniorsSkiing.com is the only source of the compiled information.

This season’s list includes areas offering season passes for $250 or less. Pass costs for Canadian areas are listed in Canadian dollars.

As in past listings, the qualifying age to receive the free or discounted benefit is indicated. Most areas require that you are the age at the time of purchase and will want to review your driver’s license or other identification.

Many areas discount season passes when they are purchased early and increase the cost as the season approaches. The prices included in the listing generally are for passes purchased before the end of November.

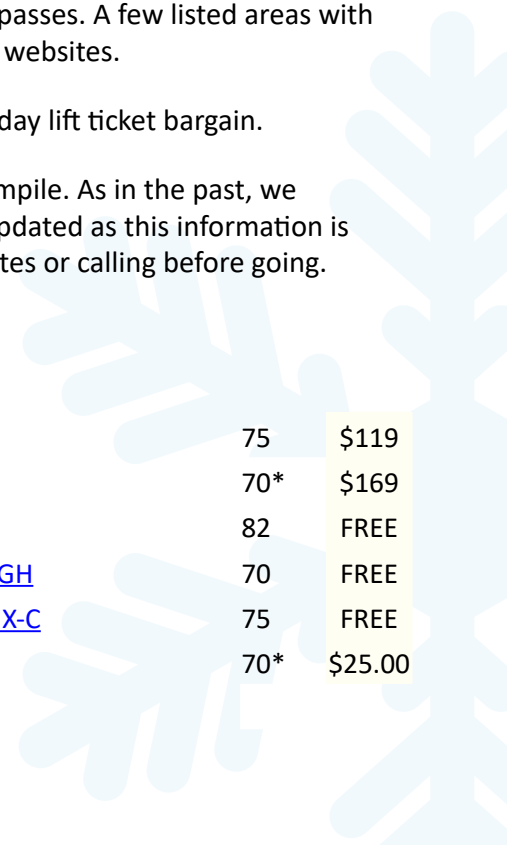

We decided against including the price of day passes because of the variables many areas have introduced with day pass pricing (e.g. half day; mid-week; multi-day, advance purchase, etc.). Generally, areas offering seniors free or deeply discounted season passes also offer them free or deeply discounted day passes. A few listed areas with very low day pass rates for seniors do not list season pass rates for seniors on their websites.

An asterisk next to a resort in the highlighted “season pass” column indicates a big day lift ticket bargain.

The research for the annual listing was done online and took several months to compile. As in the past, we encourage readers to email corrections (info@seniorsskiing.com). The list will be updated as this information is confirmed. For complete accuracy, we recommend confirming checking area websites or calling before going.
